

Can I Change My Alaska Airlines Flight Instead of Cancelling It? Everything You Need to Know

Sometimes, life throws unexpected changes your way, and your travel plans need to be adjusted. If you've booked a flight with Alaska Airlines and realize that you need to change your travel dates, route, or other details, you might be wondering whether it's possible to modify your reservation instead of cancelling it altogether. In this blog, we will explore Alaska Airlines' policies on flight changes and offer tips to help you navigate this process smoothly.

Understanding Alaska Airlines' Flight Change Policy

Alaska Airlines offers passengers the flexibility to change their flights, depending on the type of ticket they've purchased. If you've booked a standard, flexible, or premium ticket, you may be able to change your flight without a huge hassle. However, it's essential to know the terms and conditions related to flight changes, as these can vary based on the ticket class and other factors.

1. 24-Hour Change Window

If you realize you need to make a change shortly after booking your flight, you're in luck! Alaska Airlines offers a 24-hour change window. If you booked your flight directly through Alaska Airlines and it's within 24 hours of your purchase, you can make changes to your flight with no additional charges. This is a great option if you need to adjust your travel plans shortly after booking.

2. Same-Day Flight Changes

If you need to change your flight on the day of departure, Alaska Airlines provides same-day flight change options for certain ticket types. Flexible fare tickets or premium memberships may allow you to adjust your travel plans on the same day without incurring additional fees. This option is incredibly convenient for travelers who experience last-minute changes or delays. However, for standard tickets, additional charges may apply for same-day changes.

 Tip: If you want to avoid fees, always check if you're eligible for a flexible or premium ticket. These tickets tend to offer more flexibility with changes and other benefits.

Can You Change Non-Refundable Tickets?

If you have a non-refundable ticket, it's still possible to make changes, but it might come with a cost. Alaska Airlines typically allows passengers with non-refundable tickets to modify their flight, but change fees will apply. The cost will depend on the fare class and the new flight's availability. Alaska Airlines also gives you the option to apply the value of your original ticket towards a future flight, which can be a great option if your plans have changed but you still want to use the value of your purchase.

How to Change Your Alaska Airlines Flight?

Changing your flight with Alaska Airlines is a relatively simple process. Follow these steps to make changes to your reservation:

1. Log In to Your Alaska Airlines Account: Go to the official website and log in with your account details.
2. Find Your Booking: Search for your upcoming trip or enter your reservation number to access your booking.
3. Click 'Change Flight': Once your booking appears, look for the option to modify your flight. Select your new dates, route, or other details and follow the prompts to complete the change.
4. Pay for Any Additional Fees: Depending on the type of ticket you've booked, you may need to pay a fee for the change. Be prepared to cover the cost difference if your new flight is more expensive than your original one.

If you need further assistance, Alaska Airlines' customer service team can guide you through the process.

Alaska Airlines Flight Change Fees

Flight changes are generally subject to fees, especially for non-refundable tickets. Here's a breakdown of the potential fees for changing your flight:

- Non-refundable tickets: Change fees range from $125 to $200, depending on the ticket class and destination.

- Flexible tickets: If you've booked a flexible ticket, the change fee may be waived or significantly reduced.
- Same-day changes: Depending on your membership status, same-day changes can either be free or come with a minimal charge.

If you've opted for a premium membership with Alaska Airlines, you may be able to change flights without incurring fees, which is a huge benefit for frequent travelers.

Final Thoughts

Changing your flight with Alaska Airlines is definitely possible and can be done with relative ease. The airline offers various options, from a 24-hour change window to same-day adjustments and the ability to modify non-refundable tickets. Understanding your ticket type and the associated policies is key to making the best decisions.

If you're looking to change your flight, always check the terms and fees associated with your booking to ensure a smooth experience. And if you need help, don't hesitate to reach out to Alaska Airlines' customer service team.
